That's when I really get to spend time with the images, and in a sense with the models as well.

It was very cramped and hot, but we managed to come away with what I think are some really great images.

During our recent foray into Normandy with the LSG crew, I had the chance to shoot a couple of the Czech fashion models stripping down to their lovely skin outside behind the chateau.

My session with Mia and Nikita, however, is an exception.

In reviewing images for these projects, I've had to do some re-scanning and enlarging of work that has been previously shown here in the Archive - so I thought you might like to see the results.

In some cases I remove or neutralize the warm tone, but in Layla's case I thought it added to her rather golden look, so I kept the adjustments to a minimum.

She has that classic young Scandinavian look - ivory skin, pure blond hair, and the sweetest smile north of Bangkok.

The studio floor is composed of beautiful old lacquered boards, which give off a warm reddish-yellow glow.

I'm posting about half of the shots here, but LSG will have the full group, including an even more explicit series, for anyone who wants more.

Of course you'll still need to find a woman as great looking as Simi to get in your closet and take off her clothes.

As you'll notice, I couldn't stop with just one sequence, so I asked them to do it several times.

Sara is what I would call "handsome", in the same vein as Salma Hayek or a young Sophia Loren.

As you'll notice, I couldn't stop with just one sequence, so I asked them to do it several times.

In some of the shots, you can see another model, Viki, wearing a winter coat in the background - although I doubt you'll feel cold looking at most of these images.

She's a lot of fun to work with, so I'm sure we'll be seeing more of her here.

My session with Mia and Nikita, however, is an exception.

Hana has that wild Medusa hair that always has just the right amount of sexy messiness.

You may recognize the setting for this series of Mia - the entrance to the forest in back of our French chateau.

They've been great to work with, and the site looks like it will be "gangbusters" as they say in the UK.

I told her she reminded me of a young Angelica Houston, only prettier.

Heather was recommended to me by Ken Marcus, who has featured her on his own site a number of times.

So even though I set the camera white balance to "daylight", I always get images with an additional warmth.

com, in both stills and videos.

I know they'll have a few movies of some of the recent models shown here on MoreyStudio, since I saw the film crews hard at work in Prague, and they plan to add new stuff every day.

Take a look and see if you don't agree.

Today's update is from her return trip, when we spent the whole afternoon together.

This series comes from my first trip to Prague last year.

I'm shooting in Prague with the London Studio Group, and won't have a chance to post a new gallery until my return.

For the photography aficionados, I've included a couple shots that show the studio set-up we used.

If you're like me, this is what you'd really like to see when you flip through Vogue or Elle.

You may have a similar experience when you see the pictures.

Or am I just speaking for myself.

We tried to find a Morticia Adams dress for this session.

Her glowing gold skin just pops off the screen, against the dark gray background.

This is a technique I love to use, and I practiced it extensively in this session.

As some of you have commented, these sessions I've shot in Prague and London are becoming quite sexual.

com, hits the web today with a great selection of both stills and hi-def videos.

This is another LSG session from our recent trip to Prague, so there are some rather explicit shots at the end of this set.

This series was shot in the window of the chateau library in Normandy.

And if you take a close look in her eyes, you'll see reflections of two simple lighting fixtures, available at any European equivalent of Home Depot.

I enjoyed the shoot, of course, but in fact I get more of an opportunity to really look at her as I edit the image files - and of course you now have that same opportunity.

but here's another picture-perfect European fashion model quite happily posing in her birthday suit.

That's when I really get to spend time with the images, and in a sense with the models as well.

I shot several studio sessions with Heather, using some great lingerie from her personal collection.

I shot seven different models in this room, and although you may get tired of the furniture, I don't think anyone will be bored with the photos.

In some cases I remove or neutralize the warm tone, but in Layla's case I thought it added to her rather golden look, so I kept the adjustments to a minimum.

The studio floor is composed of beautiful old lacquered boards, which give off a warm reddish-yellow glow.

I've left in a number of shots one might normally reject - awkward stances, funny expressions - since I believe, in this case, those things add to the eroticism of the series.

For the photography aficionados, I've included a couple shots that show the studio set-up we used.

Setting it in the center is the standard default, but if you choose one of the sides, and use a wide open f-stop, you'll get that lovely soft and dreamy look throughout the rest of the image.

I asked her to pose in the same way she would for a lingerie ad, or for a fashion magazine spread, except without the clothes.

Veterans of the site will recognize the multicolored couch, which we also used for one of the sessions with Viki.

Hana has that wild Medusa hair that always has just the right amount of sexy messiness.

If you review the full set of images, you may notice that she's sitting or standing in a simple white closet, purchased at the nearby Ikea store.

Definitely worth checking out.

I know some people will view this set of images and say "pornography"; others will see the same photos and say "Art"; and still others will say "how did you focus your camera like that?"

And although this is Viki's fourth appearance here, these are actually from the very first time I shot her, last year in Prague.

She insisted it was correct, and I have to admit I lost all interest in spelling and paperwork, once she lifted her skirt.

The summer heat was very intense, especially in the upper attic bedroom we were using for this shoot.

I shot several studio sessions with Heather, using some great lingerie from her personal collection.

With that in mind, I often photograph the models as they get out of their wardrobe on the set.

Yashin is a Czech fashion model who works a lot in Prague and has appeared in their version of "Cosmo".

If you review the full set of images, you may notice that she's sitting or standing in a simple white closet, purchased at the nearby Ikea store.

She's a star on several of the top glamour sites, and I've wanted to shoot her ever since I first saw one of her sets on Met-art.

Even the little pink flowers on her tummy appear to have been there since birth.
